Dear Ms. Lim, Claughton Middle School Administration, and Spring ISD Leadership,

I am writing to clarify Kyvek's current educational status and to ensure alignment between our homeschooling approach and the district's expectations. We received a message stating that his GT teacher has noted his absence, and I want to confirm that Kyvek is not truant but is actively engaged in an advanced, structured homeschool curriculum designed to exceed traditional GT learning standards.

As previously mentioned, due to safety concerns and the necessity for an enriched and tailored educational environment, Kyvek has been participating in a homeschool-based GT and TAG curriculum that we have developed, integrating:

- AI, AR, and VR learning models to enhance engagement and comprehension.
- Quantum Learning and Advanced Interdisciplinary Studies, aligning with STEM and humanities.
- Project-Based Learning that applies real-world problem-solving and innovation.
- Parental Accountability Measures ensuring structured academic rigor.

Supporting the Transition & Clarification for GT Program Instructors

We recognize that there may have been some confusion regarding Kyvek's transition to homeschooling, and we sincerely appreciate the dedication of his GT instructor in reaching out. To ensure smooth communication and potential collaboration, we would be happy to:

1. Provide an Outline of His Curriculum to demonstrate how his coursework aligns with and exceeds the district's advanced academic expectations.
2. Offer a Demo or Meeting to discuss how we can partner to integrate aspects of this curriculum within the district's GT program.
3. Work with the District on a Hybrid Model that supports both GT students and students facing behavioral challenges, helping to merge home and school learning for greater impact.

Please let us know how we can best support your team in understanding and documenting Kyvek's homeschooling status, as well as explore collaborative opportunities that could benefit both gifted and at-risk students.

Looking forward to your response and to working together on innovative educational solutions.

Best regards,

J Michael F. Morris

Dear Ms. Lim,

I hope you're doing well. I am following up regarding Kyvek's homeschooling documentation. I attempted to locate the Spring ISD Homeschool Assurance Form on the district website but was unable to find it. Could you please provide a copy of the form or direct me to where I can obtain it?

Additionally, if there are any other required documents or procedures to ensure his homeschool status is properly recorded and compliant with district policies, please let me know.

Thank you for your assistance, and I appreciate your guidance in this process.

Good evening,

I have reached out to a couple of departments for assistance as it pertains to the Spring ISD Homeschool Assurance Form.

In terms of homeschooling, please contact the campus for the withdrawal process. This step is necessary to complete any required procedures and return school property.

Homeschooling requires written documentation, signed and dated by you, confirming that the student is being homeschooled. The document must also include the official start date of homeschooling.

I will follow up to ensure you have all necessary documentation and procedures completed for proper compliance.

Thank you,

Mrs.Lim
